Corruption? What Else?
Money 7 1-2 Per Cent.
The Smallest Mouse.
He Opened the Door.

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

A PICTURESQUE life ended in Chicago when "Big Tim" Murphy answered the doorbell. Four men opened fire from an automobile. Murphy fell.

Murphy was a labor leader, a successful "racketeer," owned one of the finest gambling houses in Chicago—he had been tried twice for murder, jailed for a $122,000 mail robbery. The shooting is supposed to have avenged one of the murders for which he was tried, but not convicted.

When Chicago gangland thinks a man ought to die, he dies.

THE Democratic keynote is "Republican corruption, Secretary Fall, Mr. Sinclair, oil and oil spots."

Plenty of Republican corruption, but Democrats must find something better than that. Republicans will reply, "Old stuff. What have Fall, Sinclair and Doheny to do with Herbert Hoover? As well try to fasten Bill Tweed of the Democratic party to Woodrow Wilson."

THE people know there is corruption. To their sorrow, they take much of it for granted. They hear about rotten politicians in Democratic New York grafting in every direction. They hear about other rotten politicians in Republican Washington, D. C., grafting as diligently as they know how, with an occasional cabinet officer selling government property to the highest bidder.

BUT all that doesn't decide a national election. The voters, mechanics, farmers, business men, will ask, "WHAT HAVE YOU TO OFFER? Tell us what YOU propose to do."

HARD to keep a squirrel on the ground, hard to keep Wall Street discouraged. Big men that control money yesterday put "call money," with which poor stock gamblers gamble up to 7½.

In spite of that, prices wouldn't go down. Some that sold short, thinking the moment "to leave the corpse" had arrived, were busy "covering."

Do what you please, but don't sell this country short. It's too dangerous.

MR. L. BUCK, mighty hunter before the Lord, brings from Africa a live wildcat, first ever seen by white man, a big gorilla, specimens of the okapi and zebrass; monkey tribes, and a pigmy mouse as small as a bee.

THE question arises, Were all those interesting creatures in the Garden of Eden, with the whale dinosaur, flying lizard, ornithorin hus, kangaroo, giraffe and koot owl? Or did they come gradually? If they were all there, interested Cain and Abel most? Probably the pigmy mouse, although the boys had no pockets in which to hide it.

JUDGE PROSKAUER, learned American jurist of Jewish birth, has been preparing in New York a platform for Democrats at Houston.

Since Moses came down the mountain with commandments all written out, the Jewish race has offered many important contributions to humanity.

A Jewish scholar is said to have written the Koran for Mohammed, who probably couldn't read or write. Mohammed's followers didn't know it.

EARNEST Britishers don't like stabilization of the French franc. In 1915 and 1916 they bought a French war loan of 50,000,000 pounds sterling. It is worth less than 10,000,000 pounds today with the franc stabilized, a loss of $200,000,000.

Still, it IS worth 10,000,000 pounds, which is more than you can say for some of our foreign loans.

THE Democratic party is expected to "stress prohibition enforcement and ignore modification." What it really wants is drastic modification, not much enforcement. That's the popular thing. But you can't always say what you think.

A CANDIDATE for public school teacher in an old-fashioned district, divided in its opinion as to the earth's rotundity, was asked whether he taught that the earth was round or flat. The careful teacher replied, "I teach both round and flat." Careful Democrats will teach both wet and dry. The Republicans, perhaps wiser, decided to teach dry and act wet.

ASSERT FALL OF ICE KILLED ITALIA CHIEF

Wireless Advices Give More Details on Death of Vincinio Pomella

NOBILE IS IMPROVING

General Given Permission to Accompany Rescue Expedition

Kings Bay, Spitzbergen, June 28—Vincinio Pomella, motor chief of the Nobile balloon Italia, was killed by a fall of ice from the envelope which crushed part of the cab, it was revealed today in wireless advices from Virgo Bay where the Citta Di Milano is anchored with Gen. Umberto Nobile on record. Pomella was rendered unconscious and died a few hours later without regaining his senses. His grave in the ice near the Nobile encampment is marked by a rude cross fashioned from ice.

From his sick bed on the Citta Di Milano, General Nobile is sending daily messages of hope and encouragement by wireless to the men left behind upon the floe.

On the day after the Italia crashed in a gale on May 25 Prof. Finn Malmgren, one of the scientists attached to the expedition, succeeded in trapping and killing a polar bear which furnished meat for the party for some days. They had daily rations of water from melted ice with a few drops of alcohol from the compressor of the Italia. They were able to give up this "synthetic drink" after the first relief plane flew over the ice and dropped supplies which included six bottles of whisky.

COURTHOUSE CLOCK STOPS, WEIGHT GONE

Iron Cage Prevents Repetition of Damage Done 13 Years Ago

That gangland had broken loose with full force or that someone was staging a premature Fourth of July celebration were the thoughts that rushed through the minds of workers in the courthouse about 10:20 o'clock today when a loud crash rang through the offices, shaking the building from top to bottom.

An immediate investigation however revealed that the cause of all the commotion was only a weight in the court house clock, off on another spree. Serious damage was prevented by a heavy iron and wooden cage placed immediately under the weight.

A like rampage by the belligerent weight about 13 years ago was recalled by older attaches of the courthouse following the crash. On that occasion the weight, which weighs nearly a ton, crashed through the ceiling and floor of the top story and finally came to rest on the second story floor. Although no one was injured, one person barely escaped injury or perhaps death as he entered the courtroom just a moment before the weight crashed behind him it was recalled.

GUARDS PLACED TO STOP RIOTING OVER INSCRIPTION

Louvain, Belgium, June 28—A heavy police guard was stationed today about the new Louvain library to prevent recurrence of the rioting that has broken out upon several occasions recently over the inscription to be placed upon the balcony. The faction led by Architect Whitney Warren insisted that the original inscription be installed. The opposition is led by Monsignor Ladeuse. The inscription: "Destroyed by German fury; restored by American generosity" is opposed by Monsignor Ladeuse on the ground it might reawaken war hatreds.

COURTNEY HOPS OFF

Noted British Flier On Way to Azores

Lisbon, June 28—Frank T. Courtney, British flier, hopped off from here at 8 a. m. today for the Azores on the first leg of his proposed transatlantic flight.

Last year Courtney made several unsuccessful starts in the same plane.

OFFICIALS FILE NO CHARGES IN SHOOTING CASE

John Mahaffey Still Being Held For Investigation by Police

VICTIM IMPROVING

Quigley's Right Finger Amputated; Suspect Does Not Talk

It is improbable that any charge will be filed today against John Mahaffey, held at police headquarters in connection with the shooting of Ray Quigley at the Mahaffey home on Pearl st. Wednesday night, it was stated by Police Prosecutor George Gerau, this morning. Mahaffey is still being held at police headquarters for investigation while Quigley continues to improve at the City hospital.

Quigley was the target for six shots fired through a window at the Mahaffey home at 10 o'clock Wednesday night, three of the bullets lodging in his right leg, the fourth tearing a hole through the third finger on his right hand making the amputation of the finger necessary. The fifth grazing the shins of both legs and the sixth plowed a furrow across the top of the ankle of his left foot.

The shots were fired in rapid succession through a north window and in the excitement that followed, the would-be murderer escaped without, so far as is known, having been seen by anyone. Quigley was rushed to the City hospital where his wounds were dressed and yesterday morning three of the bullets were removed from his right leg. Two of the bullets were taken from one hole, the attending physician said today, indicating that the gun had been rested on the window sill, otherwise it would have been practically impossible to have fired two shots into the same place. One of the bullets was embedded an inch and one half deeper than the other, the physician said.

Mahaffey, who made no resistance when arrested, has thus far made no statements as to his part in the shooting.

DONAHEY AUTHORIZES PROBE AT OHIO U.

Result of Charge That Trustee Profited Through Sale of Coal

Columbus, June 28—Appointment of Charles F. Miller, chief of state departmental examiners, to conduct the examination into the books of the Ohio university, at Athens, was announced today by Governor Donahey. The naming of Miller was announced by State Auditor Joseph Tracy. The investigation will cover the years since 1923, Tracy said. The work is to begin following the examination of the books of the Ohio State university now being made. This will probably be the first of th coming week, it was said.

MELT GREASE FROM POTS AND PANS IN 10 SECONDS

Modern Women Apply Brains to Job and Keep Hands Out of Water

LYE NOW USED TO REPLACE THE STRENUOUS OLD-TIME "SOAP, STEEL WOOL AND MUSCLE" METHOD

Seeing what the three-times-a-day job of scouring greasy pots and pans have done to their mothers' hands and looks, young wives of today use a new method.

Noting how lye melted grease from their garbage pails like snow from a hot stove, they determined to use it for pots and pans. To do so they knew they must keep their hands out of the water. But they shed no tears on this account. Now, in ten seconds, they swash clean a big broiler that took their mothers ten minutes of hard, filthy scouring.

Red Seal Lye is their favorite. Its sales have grown by leaps and bounds because it is 97% pure—the purest, quickest acting lye made.

Try this clever new idea. Now, while you are thinking about it, jot down "Red Seal Lye" on your grocery list for tomorrow. Make up your mind you are going to end forever this useless scouring.

The Mystery at Styles

THE YEAR'S MOST BAFFLING SERIAL STORY

Of course, there was no possibility of being able permanently to conceal Dr. Bauerstein's arrest from her. It would be announced in every newspaper on the morrow. Still, I shrank from blurting it out. If only Poirot had been accessible, I could have asked his advice. What possessed him to go posting off to London in this unaccountable way?

In spite of myself, my opinion of his sagacity was immeasurably heightened. I would never have dreamt of suspecting the doctor, had not Poirot put it into my head. Yes, decidedly, the little man was clever.

After some reflecting, I decided to take John into my confidence, and leave him to make the matter public or not, as he thought fit.

He gave vent to a prodigious whistle, as I imparted the news.

"Great Scot! You were right, then, I couldn't believe it at the time."

"No, it is astonishing until you get used to the idea, and see how it makes everything fit in. Now, what are we to do? Of course, it will be generally known tomorrow."

John reflected.

"Never mind," he said at last, "we won't say anything at present. There is no need. As you say, it will be known soon enough."

But to my intense surprise, on getting down early the next morning and eagerly opening the newspapers, there was not a word about the arrest! There was a column of mere padding about "The Styles Poisoning Case," but nothing further. It was rather inexplicable, but I supposed that, for some reason or other, Japp wished to keep it out of the papers. It worried me just a little, for it suggested the possibility that there might be further arrests to come.

After breakfast, I decided to go down to the village, and see if Poirot had returned yet; but, before I could start, a well known face blocked one of the windows, and the well known voice said:

"Bon jour, mon ami!"

"Poirot," I exclaimed, with relief, and seizing him by both hands, I dragged him into the room. "I was never so glad to see any one. Listen, I have said nothing to anybody but John. Is that right?"

"My friend," replied Poirot, "I do not know what you are talking about."

"Dr. Bauerstein's arrest, of course," I answered impatiently.

"Is Bauerstein arrested, then?"

"Did you not know it?"

"Not the least in the world." But, pausing a moment, he added: "Still, it does not surprise me. After all, we are only four miles from the coast."

"The coast?" I asked, puzzled. "What has that got to do with it?"

Poirot shrugged his shoulders.

"Surely, it is obvious!"

"Not to me. No doubt I am very dense, but I can not see what the proximity of the coast has got to do with the murder of Mrs. Inglethorp."

"Nothing at all, of course," replied Poirot, smiling. "But we were speaking of the arrest of Dr. Bauerstein."

"Well, he is arrested for the murder of Mrs. Inglethorp—"

"What?" cried Poirot, in apparently lively astonishment. "Dr. Bauerstein arrested for the murder of Mrs. Inglethorp?"

"Yes?"

"Impossible! That would be too good a farce! Who told you that, my friend?"

"Well, no one exactly told me," I confessed. "But he is arrested."

"Oh, yes, very likely. But for espionage, mon ami."

"Espionage?" I gasped.

"Precisely."

"Not for poisoning Mrs. Inglethorp?"

"Not unless our friend Japp has taken leave of his senses," replied Poirot placidly.

"But—but I thought you thought so too?"

Poirot gave me one look, which conveyed a wondering pity, and his full sense of the utter absurdity of such an idea.

"Do you mean to say," I asked, slowly adapting myself to the new idea, "that Dr. Bauerstein is a spy?"

Poirot nodded.

"Have you never suspected it?"

"It did not strike you as peculiar that a famous London doctor should bury himself in a little village like this, and should be in the habit of walking about at all hours of the night, fully dressed?"

"No," I confessed, "I never thought of such a thing."

"He is, of course, a German by birth," said Poirot thoughtfully, "though he has practised so long in this country that nobody thinks of him as anything but an Englishman. He was naturalized about 15 years ago. A very clever man—a Jew, of course."

"The blackguard!" I cried indignantly.

"Not at all. He is, on the contrary, a patriot. Think what he stands to lose. I admire the man myself."

But I could not look at it in Poirot's philosophical way.

"And this is the man with whom Mrs. Cavendish has been wandering about all over the country!" I cried indignantly.

"Yes. I should fancy he had found her very useful," remarked Poirot. "So long as gossip buried itself in coupling their names together, any other vagaries of the doctor's passed unobserved."

"Then you think he never really cared for her?" I asked eagerly—rather too eagerly, perhaps, under the circumstances.

"That, of course, I cannot say, but—shall I tell you my own private opinion, Hastings?"

"Yes."

"Well, it is this: that Mrs. Cavendish does not care, and never has cared one little jot about Dr. Bauerstein!"

"Do you really think so?" I could not disguise my pleasure.

"I am quite sure of it. And I will tell you why."

"Yes?"

"Because she cares for some one else, mon ami."

"Oh!" What did he mean? In spite of myself, an agreeable warmth spread over me. I am not a vain man where women are concerned, but I remembered certain evidences, too lightly thought of at the time, perhaps, but which certainly seemed to indicate—

Love's Awakening

THE HEART STORY OF A WOMAN'S AFFECTIONS

By ADELE GARRISON

Princess Olina Again Steps Into the Picture

AS I stepped from the hall to the front veranda where my callers had chosen to sit all three of them sprang to their feet, but Princess Olina whom almost everybody supposed to be simply Miss Eleanor Lincoln of The Larches, flashed past Mr. Veritzen and his son, Noel, and kissed me with a lack of royal dignity which I am afraid would have appalled the beautiful Queen Olga of Transvania if she could have seen her fugitive daughter's impetuosity.

But the beautiful runaway princess has clung to me—almost literally—ever since the time when frightened and in deadly peril of Sergius, the arch plotter against royal lives, she confided to me the fantastic, almost unbelievable tale of her escape from the Transvanian royal entourage. Every time I looked at her, I realized the unusual courage and resourcefulness with which this slip of a girl had eluded the search constantly made for her by the royal family of Transvania. Never had it been admitted in Transvania that the favorite princess of the populace had not returned upon the ship which carried her royal family from America after their spectacular tour of this country. A swathed figure—that of Olina's maid—had been carried on board ship, and later been transferred to a secluded country castle ever since the object of solicitude upon the part of the Transvanians because it was supposed that Olina lay ill there.

But the resourceful princess had changed to a frightened child when she realized that a woman at court had used a cipher message to Sergius, which if it had reached him would have resulted in horror beyond description, including the assassination of her own father and mother.

"What must I do?" she had asked me pitifully the morning after the capture of Sergius. "I will do anything you say even if it is to go back to marry King Albert."

That this was the greatest sacrifice she could make, I knew, for I had listened to her shuddering horror of the old King of Trees whom her mother had selected as her future husband. But with my sympathies throughly enlisted for her, I had counseled her against going back home.

"That would be the most foolish thing you could do," I told her. "Your personal problems haven't been altered by this thing except that you need no longer fear Sergius. And your mother will some time send you the message which you have asked her to put in the personal columns of the New York newspapers, the assurance that you need not marry King Albert. Then you can go home."

But as the days went on, I had felt less sure that she would go home even if her mother should relent. For her infatuation for Noel Veritzen was as strong as was the fantastic determination of the young violinist's father that his son should marry Olina, the daughter of the woman whom Philip Veritzen had worshiped in his strangely shadowed youth.

At Olina's kiss and embrace of me, at the beaming of the fatuous approval of her every action in Philip Veritzen's eyes, and at the bewildered, almost suffering expression in the dark eyes of his son, I felt again the fantastic sense of something electric in the very atmosphere surrounding these three strangely assorted people. But Olina gave me little time for reflection.

"I really didn't mean to come today," she said, "for I don't believe Mrs. Hackett approves of having people around these days. But when Mr. Veritzen came and wanted me to come over with him and Noel, I was—how do you say it here—'plum tickled pink,' and I lost no time in accepting their invitation. I do hope it's all right, and how is Junior?"

"It's perfectly all right," I assured her heartily. "I'm very glad you could come over, and Junior is getting along beautifully. He hasn't been permitted to get out of bed yet, but he has been sitting up and listening to stories."

"Oh! I'm so glad. But!"—she turned with pretty apology to Philip Veritzen—"I've been rattling on so that poor Mr. Veritzen hasn't had a chance even to say 'How do you do!' And he has brought the most marvelous things for Junior!"

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

Next Wednesday will be the Fourth of July and all of the stores are full of all kinds of fire works and skyrockets and roman candles, and my grandfather said if the Romans had to use those kind of candles he was glad he wasn't a Roman and going to bed upstairs and someone following him with a candle. Him and me both.

It was a nice day when I let Jubilee down by the rope in his teeth and put on my short britches and went down, and the first thing me and Jubilee done was to go and take a look at the swing, and my grandfather had fixed it and hit the ends of the bolts with a hammer so that they had swole up and no one could unscrew the nuts. My grandfather knows almost everything.

When I was milking the cows and they were wrapping their tails around my neck every time they would switch at a fly the bunch came oozing in, and then Younise and Feeble and Maggie, the girl that got fascinated on her leg so it wouldn't show, came and Nibs told them to chase themselves. I asted him whose barn he was trying to chase my friends out of, and he said: "Who wants to know?" And I said I did. And I said to him that I have got a swift punch for anyone that tries to run anyone out of my barn, and he says to me I think I can lick him, and I said I knowed it. Then he asted me, me and who else, and I got up off my milk stool and was looking him in the eye and pushing against him when he grinned, and I know he was fooling, but I bet he was sore anyway, because he caught the Lost Rag of Tripe grinning and gave him a backhanded slap in the mouth.

Nibs said he told the girls to chase themselves so we could go to the lake, and I said we could go to the lake anyhow, so we took the cows to the pasture and did, almost. We would of went the whole way only we stumbled on a patch that was simply polluted with wild strawberries. So we all picked strawberries after we had looked for snakes, and we each got a lot of berries in our hats and then we chanted ourselves to our house and my mother made us a strawberry shortcake, and gave us all the milk we wanted to put on it. I have got the best mother in the world and the best grandfather. I can't say much for my pet and uncle, and my father isn't as friendly as he ought to be, and he don't ever play ball with us or go swimming with us like some fathers do. I am glad he don't, though, as then he would keep us out of cookies.

When we went out to go and chase the cows inside our dooryards some of them would have to stay there, so we [illegible]

Gov. Alfred E. Smith People's Champion, Declares Roosevelt

Nominating Speeches Are Given at Convention of Democrats in Houston, Tex.

Speaker Who Puts New York Candidate in Nomination Asserts He Is Happy Warrior and Victory Is His Habit; Read, George and Ayres Named

Houston, Tex., June 28—"Victory is his habit—the happy warrior!"

With this prophetic characterization, the name of Governor Alfred E. Smith was presented to the Democratic national convention today by one of his closest personal friends and political allies, Franklin D. Roosevelt.

It was the third time Roosevelt had placed Smith's name before the quadrennial assembly.

"The faith which I held, I still hold," he said, in recalling his eight years' fight to win the presidential nomination for the man who was the boy of the sidewalks of New York.

The speech was short, uttered in crisp ringing sentences remarkably free of bombast and high oratory.

Seen as New Lincoln

"Between him and the people is that subtle bond which makes him their champion and makes them enthusiastically trust him with their loyalty and their love."

With that unadorned keynote, Roosevelt presented Smith as a new Lincoln and a new Wilson.

"It was Lincoln's human heart, and Woodrow Wilson's passionate desire to bring about the happiness of the whole world which will be best remembered by the historians."

Roosevelt followed the lead of the temporary chairman, Claude Bowers, in assailing "the crass materialism" of Republican prosperity, political corruption, and spiritual lethargy in administrative leadership. There was no reference to prohibition, either in the exhaustive review of Smith's record or in the summary of the personal attributes which, his friends deem, mark him for high service to the party and nation.

Hates Hypocrisy

"He is well called 'the pathfinder to the open road for all true lovers of humanity.' He has the honesty that hates hypocrisy and cannot live with concealment and deceit.

"Personal leadership is a fundamental of successful government. I do not mean the leadership of the band of good fellows and good schemes who followed President Harding, nor the purely perfunctory party loyalty which has part of the time in past of the country sustained the present chief executive. I mean that leadership which by sheer force of mind, by chain of unanswerable logic has brought friends and foes alike to enact vitally needed measures of government reform.

Points to Honesty

"His staunchest political adversaries concede the governor's unique and unparalelled record of constructive achievement in the total reorganization of the machinery of government, in the businesslike management of state finance, in the enactment of a legislative program for the protection of men, women and children engaged in industry, in the improvement of the public health, and in the attainment of the finest standard of public service in the interest of humankind. This he has accomplished by a personality of vibrant, many sided appeal which has swept along with it a legislature of a different political faith.

As to the requsite of honesty: I do not mean an honesty that merely keeps a man out of jail or an honesty that while avoiding personal smirch, hides the corruption of others. I speak of that honesty that demands faithfulness to the public trust in every public servant, that honesty which takes immediate action to correct abuse.

"The voting public of the nation is fully wise enough to compare the ethical standards of official Albany with those of official Washington.

Must Be Concerned

"The soul of our country, lulled by mere material prosperity, has passed through eight grey years. Our people must not acquiesce in the easy thought of being mere passengers so long as the drivers and mechanics do not disturb our comfort. We must be concerned over our destination, not merely satisfied that the passing scenery is pleasant to the eye. We must be interested in whether that national destination be heaven or hell and not content that the man at the wheel has assured us that we shall there find a full bank account and a soft bed.

"In an era of the ready-made we must not accept ready-made government; in a day of high powered advertising we must not fall for the false statements of the most highly organized propaganda ever developed by the owners of the Republican party. We do not want to change these United Sovereign States of America into the 'United States, Incorporated,' with a limited and self-perpetuating board of directors and no voting power in the common stockholders.

Need of Leader

"America needs not only an administrator but a leader—a pathfinder, a blazer of the trail to the high road that will avoid the bottomless morass of crass materialism that has engulfed so many of the great civilizations of the past.

"It is the privilege of Democracy not only to offer such a man but to offer him as the surest leader to victory. To stand upon the ramparts and die for our principles is heroic. To sally forth to battle and win for our principles is something more than heroic. We offer one who has the will to win—who not only deserves success but commands it. Victory is his habit—the happy warrior, Alfred E. Smith."

SHOWER FOR FIRE VICTIM

Family Reunions

HARVEY-BALLINGER

The annual gathering of the Harvey and Ballinger families of Hardin, Logan and Union counties was held at the Grange Hall in Dudley Township with Marvin Harvey, o. Ada, as president, and Earl Ballinger, of Lafue, as secretary.

Rev. Milo R. Ballinger, of Toledo, delivered the sermon, after which tables were spread for two hundred. The afternoon was spent in visiting, music, recitations and a history of the Ballingers by L. B. Harvey.

This history was compiled with a chart and separate sheets for each family including four generations. He showed that the Ballingers are of French Huguenot origin, coming to New Jersey about 1750 and to Ohio in 1806 settling near Middleburg, Logan Co. from which place they have spread over much territory.

SEVEN ARE FREED BY JUDGE KILLITS

Orders Indictment Returned in Mail Fraud Charge Case Quashed

Toledo, June 28—Seven men, headed by Guy Huston, president of the Chicago Joint Land bank, charged with using the mails to defraud, are free of charges following action of Federal Judge John M. Killits yesterday when he ordered the indictments returned by grand jury June 7, 1927, quashed.

Those relieved of the charges in addition to Huston, were Walter Cravens, president of the Kansas City Joint stock Land bank; Harold A. Smith, president of the Southern Minnesota Joint Stock Land bank; Oran F. Schee, president of the Des Moines Joint Stock Land bank; John L. Boyles, secretary of the Chicago bank; Vernon U. Seigler, member of the incorporations committee of the Farmers' Fund of Illinois; Glen W. Gold, former officer of the Minnesota bank, and John E. Huston, vice president of the Chicago bank.

In ordering the indictments quashed Judge Killits upheld the contention of the defendants' attorney who filed a plea of abatement asserting that Sylvester Rush special government counsel had not had specific authorization from the attorney general for his appearance at the grand jury proceedings.

Friendship involves more sympathy than "too bad, too bad."

The accident happened when the wheels of the car cramped as Mrs. Flarity attempted to turn into the road after passing another car.

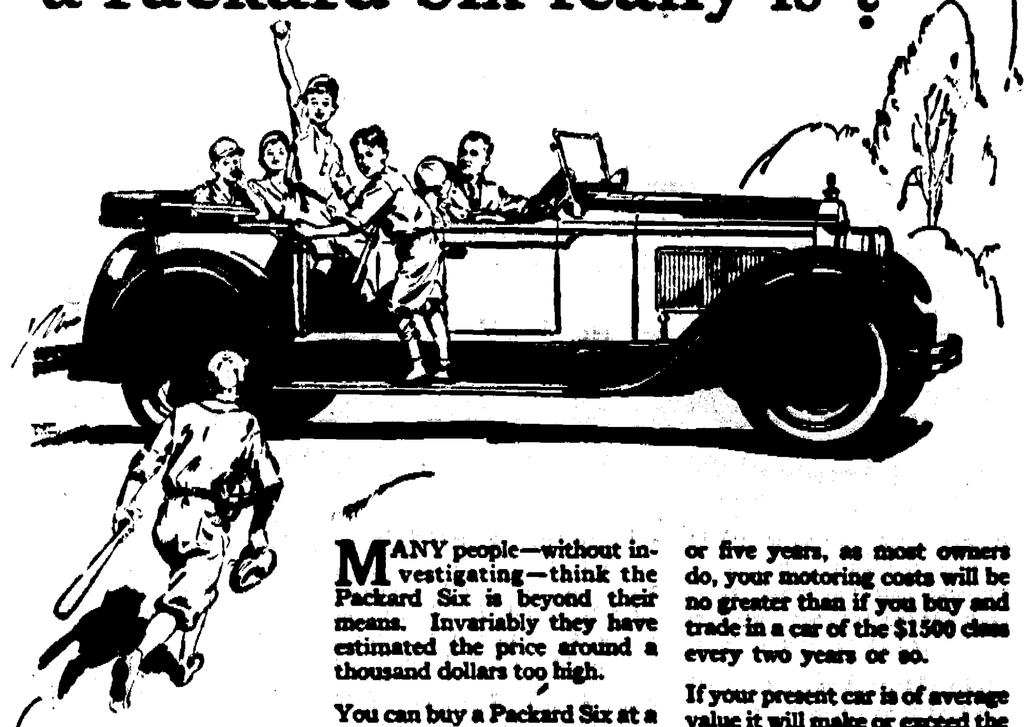
Do you know how inexpensive a Packard Six really is?


MANY people—without investigating—think the Packard Six is beyond their means. Invariably they have estimated the price around a thousand dollars too high.
You can buy a Packard Six at a third less than you may have thought—for the prices are as low as $2275 at the factory, with the beautiful Five-Passenger Sedan listing at only $2285.
Why not enjoy a Packard Six this Spring? If you keep it four or five years, as most owners do, your motoring costs will be no greater than if you buy and trade in a car of the $1500 class every two years or so.
If your present car is of average value it will make or exceed the down payment on a Packard Six. May we make you an estimate based on the highest possible price for which we can hope to sell it? The balance can be paid on monthly terms which you will find very easy to meet.
THE PACKARD SIX is available in a wide range of body types priced from $2275. The Five-Passenger Sedan at Detroit is $2285

Declares Reed Thunderbolt That Must be Hurled at Advancing, United G.O.P.

Howell Says Missouri Senator Made to Order as Candidate for Presidency; Describes His Career and Constant Battling for Democratic Principles

Houston, Tex., June 28—James A. Reed is a great American, with an outstanding record of public achievements and he would make a great American president, Charles M. Howell of Missouri declared today in placing Reed's name before the Democratic national convention as a candidate for the party's presidential nomination.

Against the advancing columns of a united Republican party, Howell said, "A human thunderbolt must be hurled and James A. Reed is that thunderbolt."

"Reed is made to order as a candidate for the presidency against Herbert Hoover," Howell asserted. "With their records, their ideals and their accomplishments put down side by side, and their real abilities and their true worth judged in the open court of public opinion—the greatest court on this earth—what chance would Hoover have against the greatest orator of the English speaking race?"

Describes Career

Howell described Reed's career, his record in congress, his constant battling for Democratic principles, his defense of constitutional privileges and his life-long fight for Democracy.

Howell diverted but once from a dramatic summarization of Reed's public life and then only to pledge the Missourian's service to the party this year whether he won or lost the presidential nomination.

"In presenting his name to you, my fellow Democrats," Howell declared, "there is one thing he charged me to say—that no matter who is nominated by this convention, no matter to whom this great honor and distinction shall go, his services on the platform, or in the councils of the party will be devoted without reservation or limit until the end of the campaign, no matter whether the hopes of our party shall turn to ashes in our hands or whether our arms shall be stacked on the plains of victory."

Howell, in placing Reed's name before the convention, achieved a life long ambition. Personal friends for 30 years, Howell supported Reed every time the senator ran for public office. Back in 1888, when Reed became prosecuting attorney in Kansas City to lay the basis of his great public career, Howell was his first assistant. Later they were law partners. Throughout the years, they have been inseparable friends, with Reed in the public eye and Howell behind the scenes.

"In offering our distinguished statesman, we are not appealing to you because of state pride—that would be selfish," said Howell in opening his speech.

"We talk to you from a national standpoint because he stands for those fundmental principles upon which all Democrats can agree and which they have loved and fought for and are willing to fight for again and again; because he is at once the creator of the great burning issue of this day and the pitiless sword put in execution; because he is a great American and if president would be an American president."

Howell declared the Democratic party must make its battle this year upon the issues which all members of the party agree. He then recited Reed's record in the senate.

Stands on Record

"Missouri desires it to be known that we are willing that our candidate shall stand or fall on his written record," Howell asserted.

"We stand for the rights of property as well as for the rights of man, but when the rights of property conflict with the rights of man, we stand for the rights of man. Jefferson on the one side and Hamilton on the other created that issue and the Democratic party follows Jefferson. No statesman, living or dead, has held more firmly to this doctrine than has Senator James A. Reed.

"We are in favor of free, local self government and in the preservation of the sovereignty of states. We are in favor of extending the dominion of the federal government to the limits of the Constitution and no farther—that is, we support the Constitution. Reed is in harmony with the Democratic doctrine in this respect."

In touching on Reed's career, Howell said the Missourian had made such a battle for "honest government and pure elections" that it would "stand as his everlasting monument." He added that Reed had driven Newberry from public life and ended the rule of public officers in Michigan. He said Reed had closed the doors of the Senate to Smith of Illinois, and to Vare of Pennsylvania. Then came a sly shot at Herbert Hoover.

"It was Reed who barred the doors of the Senate," said Howell, "to Vare, who latest conspicuous achievement was to swing the Pennsylvania delegation to Hoover, thereby insuring his nomination. If Hoover should win in the coming election, would he fail to remember the man who helped him in his hour of need?"

There was one mention of President Woodrow Wilson. Howell declared Reed during the war "supported our great president in every request for money, materials and men." He told of Reed defeating the measure proposing a "war cabinet" and added that "Woodrow Wilson, backed by the men and resources of the country, won this one and out of its wreck rose to world stature and in thought and ideals almost passed to world dominion."

On foreign affairs, Howell said Reed "stood where Washington stood—against all foreign entanglements and alliances." "He has insisted upon maintaining the dignity and honor of this republic wherever its flag floats, but he has stood against our involvement in the controversies of the old world or our participation in agreements which compel us to send American boys to fill foreign graves."

There was another sentence that provoked applause—it came when Howell said: "There lives no greater defender of the constitution."

On prohibition, Howell said Reed "believes that if any laws prove oppressive or unwise, the people, through their chosen representatives, have the right and power to change or modify them, but that until so changed or modified, they should be respected, obeyed and strictly enforced."

After praising Reed's career and declaring he would stand by the party nominee, Howell concluded with "and in the future when great questions press forward for solution and unprecedented issues hang in the balance, if our country be assailed by enemies from without or attacked by foes from within, his voice will be raised in the defense of his party. In the defense of his country, and still above that, in the defense of the rights of man as long as that silver tongue can utter a golden word."

Old Folks Say Doctor Caldwell was Right

The basis of treating sickness has not changed since Dr. Caldwell left Medical College in 1875, nor since he placed on the market the laxative prescription he had used in his practice, known to druggists and the public since 1892, as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Then, the treatment of constipation, biliousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach and other indispositions that result from constipation was entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is a combination of senna and other mild laxative herbs, with pepsin.

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you, and the better for the general health of all. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with strong drugs?

A bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will last a family several months and all can use it. It is good for the baby because pleasant to the taste, gentle in action, and free from narcotics. In the proper dose, given in the directions, it is equally effective at all ages. Elderly people will find it especially

MODEL OF HOME IS FEATURE OF EXHIBIT

Fifteen Points of Safe Construction Shown in Small Building

One of the interesting exhibits at the Lumber Show being held here this week under the auspices of the Ohio Association of Retail Lumber Dealers, is the frame of a model home showing the 15 points of "safe and permanent construction" that have been enrolled by engineers of country's larger lumber manufactures, and which it is said by lumbermen, have fallen in disuse to a large extent in the past 10 years.

These points are not new, it is pointed out by the lumbermen, but are principles of construction recognized by the building craft from time immemorial. A house constructed with the 15 points faithfully carried out, they say, will be able to withstand a wind of tornado velocity and resist for a much longer period the natural wear and tear of the elements.

The growing demand for color in the home is also vividly shown in the exhibits. Color the lumbermen say, is playing a more important part in the lives and activities of the people than ever before in the history of this country—color in dress, color in furniture, color in automobiles, color in practically everything.

Six panel doors, one finished in a bright green and others in various shades of rich brown having a piano like finish, are objects of much comment at the show. Instructions in coloring and finishing woods, are given by Mrs. Marion Teal.

The show is being held in the vacant room formerly occupied by the Western Union Telegraph Co., west of the Marion Hotel. No admission is charged. The purpose of the show, it is declared by the lumbermen, is to instruct prospective builders how to build more artistically and yet more economically.

A letter was read from John W. Jockel, state secretary-treasurer of the Ohio State Conference, Bricklayers, Mason and Plasterers International Union, regarding their convention held in this city June 17, 18 and 19. Mr. Jockel reported one of the most harmonious conventions ever held and thanked the Central Labor Union for the co-operation in the entertainment of the delegates, tour of the city, theater parties, and visit to the Harding home and tomb.

Al Joyous as Radio Tells How Crowd Honored Wife

ALBANY, N. Y., June 28—Gov. Al Smith last night heard, if he could not see, the demonstration in Houston when his name was placed in nomination for party standard bearers at the Democratic national convention. And his foremost thought seemed to be of the "first lady" of the Empire State.

"They are crowding around Mrs. Smith's box," came from the big radio set up in the executive mansion where the governor got his first-hand description of the convention.

"Crowding around Mrs. Smith's box," he repeated to his daughter, Emily, now Mrs. John A. Warner, wife of the superintendent of state police. There was a boyish grin upon his face.

Suddenly for the first time in the riotous demonstration the sound of a band came through the ether blaring forth the old familiar tune, "The Sidewalks of New York." It was being played at that moment in slow waltz tempo. With another and broader grin the governor swung into a typical Bowery walk step, ending with a slow side kick which would have won the approval of any Broadway dancer.

The time was spent socially and a short program, arranged by Dale Gutman, was given. The Rev. Earl L. Red rambler roses arranged in baskets made an attractive setting.

Dr. and Mrs. Davis will leave Saturday for the east, where they expect to locate permanently. Mr. Davis just completed a three-years pastorate at Trinity Church.

THEATER OFFERING PRIZES IN CONTEST

Puzzle To Be Offered For Solution in Connection With Next Week's Show

The Grand theater is offering prizes of 50 pairs of tickets to Marionites who solve a unique puzzle which is being offered in connection with the showing of "We Americans" at the theater four days, starting Sunday.

Seven Marion merchants are cooperating with Manager Ed Sharpless in this contest. Each merchant will have a large card with a letter in his store window or some place in his store. When all of these letters are found and placed properly together they will spell a word descriptive of the picture.

"We Americans" is the screen version of the legitimate Broadway show of the same name. This picture played for 11 weeks on Broadway. George Sidney is the star and is supported by George Lewis and Patsy Ruth Miller.

Manager Sharpless requests persons entering the contest to send their answers to the Grand theater as quickly as possible. The contest will end at 6 o'clock Monday night.

SAYS TAX REDUCTION WOULD AID FARMERS

Begg Claims Cheaper Government Best Form of Relief

Columbus, June 28—"One form of farm relief that I imagine will be welcome to all the farmers of Ohio will be a reduction in the cost of government," declared Congressman James T. Begg here today. As one of the candidates for the Republican nomination for governor, Begg is scheduled to make an address at the opening session of the Republican state convention here late today.

"There has been a great cry in this country for agricultural relief," Begg said. "Many schemes have been put forth but, unfortunately for agriculture, not one has commanded a sufficient following to be enacted into law. Of one thing I am certain. No farm in Ohio is rich enough in fertility to pay $4 an acre toward the cost of state government and still stay out of bankruptcy.

"We find industry leaving the state where possible and moving to our neighboring states because of more favorable tax conditions. Such conditions cannot long continue if industry and agriculture are not to be handicapped."

BY KARL R. McELROY
Sports Editor, The Star

With the Eagles generally conceded the championship of the Commercial league, it begins to look as though Calvary will be far out in front of Sunday School League No. 1 when the season closes.

Although not revealing any dark secret, it would not surprise the writer to see these two teams battling in the final round of the little world series for the championship of Marion. Both the Eagles and Calvary are of championship caliber and to date have put up the best fight of any teams in the four leagues.

The race in the other two leagues has not reached the point where the winning team can be picked with any degree of certainty. Ties for first place exist.

Calvary Beat Wesley

Last night's games shot Calvary so far into the lead that the race begins to look like a run away. While the leaders were defeating Wesley 5 to 2, the second place Christians where taking a 9 to 4 walloping from Trinity.

Calvary managed to slip into the lead for the first time Tuesday night defeating Mt. Mary's. Last night's victory has paved the road for another championship.

Two other contests played resulted in shutout scores. St. Mary's defeated Epworth 2 to 0 while Epworth Seniors were whitewashing the Presbyterians, 6 to 0.

Lee Street Steps Up

Lee Street moved a step closer to the leading Epworth Juniors by winning its argument with Christians No. 2. The contest was played over, starting at the third inning, by order of the recreation ball commission. It had been protested by the Lee Street nine. When the game started, Lee Street was given a 1 to 0 lead and the fray wound up with the score standing at 7 to 4.

Tonight's schedule in the Industrial league is not expected to change the standing to any great extent. Osgood will have a tough time of it with the Hocking Valley at Lincoln while the C. D. & M. is playing Huber at Central. The Excavators and Erie Roundhouse will clash at the Shovel and Fairfield plays the Shovel Club at Fairfield.

Last night's scores follow:

Lee Street ..... 015 001 0—7

GROUP HEADS FAVOR MERGER OF DISTRICT GOLF ASSOCIATIONS

Columbus and Dayton Organizations May Form Central Ohio Association

Dayton, June 28—Officials of both Columbus and Dayton district golf associations are in favor of combining the two districts under one head to be called the Central Ohio Golf Association, according to L. S. McPhail, secretary of the Columbus organization, and Ralph DeWeese, head of the Dayton group.

Although there has been no official action on the move, McPhail told the International News Service the idea has been discussed by officials of both groups and is viewed favorably.

It will probably be taken up officially in the near future, he said.

DeWeese said that the merged groups would have a membership of 50 clubs, and could wield a powerful influence in state and midwest golf activities.

Impetus to the proposed merger was given by the recent action of the United States Golf Association in districting the nation for the qualifying rounds for the National open, it was said.

Cleveland courses have been scenes of qualifying tournaments for the last two years. In case the two districts merge, DeWeese said that the new district could have something to say concerning other courses than those in Cleveland being used for the tournaments.

It is said that the Cleveland district association has been seeking a consolidation with that of Akron for the past year. A more powerful organization is said to be their aim, as in the case of the proposed Columbus-Dayton union.

The annual Dayton district match play tournament will be held at the Miami Valley McGregor courses beginning July 6 and closing July 15.

Numerous entries have caused the event to be divided into two sections for the first time in the history of the tourney.

The first section will be open to any amateur in the district under 45 years of age. The qualifying rounds will be held on July 6. The first 16 will play in the championship flight at Miami Valley and the other 16 in the McGregor flight.

Those over 45 years old will play at the Miami course beginning July 10. Prizes will be awarded winners and runners up in all flights.

Johnny Risko Outmuggs George Godfrey and Wins Decision in 10-Round Battle

JOHNNY RISKO GEORGE GODFREY

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

New York, June 28—Johnny Risko, the man who won't have "no" for an answer, did us all a personal favor last night when he outmuggyd the all-black menace, George Godfrey, in 10 tedious rounds at Ebbets Field. He staked Godfrey to height, reach and 41½ pounds in weight—he gave away everything in fact, excepting fighting heart, and, in this important essential, the black finished so far back that I was forced to stretch a point in even giving him second place.

Risko simply "bulled" a bigger and broader man out of the decision in the last three rounds. Rushing in headlong, he drove home much after punch to Godfrey's middle and all that worthy could do about it was to clutch the other in a series of "John Gilbert love scenes."

It was a terrible fight, and Godfrey was mainly responsible. The brunette that it takes two to make a fight was never so thoroughly sustained

Swings At Will

The first two rounds were uneventful, but Godfrey easily won the third and fourth. He swung the white man around at will, meantime clubbing that camel right to the kidneys and occasionally hooking a left up above. The body punches had John's knees drooping.

Risko, however, stopped brisking around the mammoth 12 in the fifth, shooting two rights in the rotunda that made Godfrey bend double. Thus encouraged, John began charging in with a left hook under Godfrey's guard and from that moment the fight was "in."

Big Heart Wins

Godfrey had no defense against the punch. From then on he fought a defensive fight and a far from successful one, at that.

For Risko, having bluffed Godfrey out of all fighting ideas, was now free of those right hand counters to the body and showed his appreciation by swarming all over the colored man for the last five rounds, clipping his tilted head with left swings and invariably scoring with the same punch to the body.

That was about all there was to it. The man with the big body lost. The man with the big heart won.

MACK'S A'S MUST GAIN ONE BATTLE A WEEK TO OVERTAKE YANKS

Athletics Lose to New York, 7 to 4, and Trail Leaders 11 Games

New York, June 28—Cornelius McGillicuddy, nee' Mack, adjusted his lightning calculator today and morosely estimated that his Athletics must gain one game a week on the New York Yankees for the remainder of the season in order to nose out the world's champions. They lost to the Yankees yesterday, 7 to 4, and now trail them by 11 games.

The White Elephants were forced to jump through Hennery Johnson's hoop yesterday being unable to get a hit off the Bradenton Fla. shenk in the last five innings. The Yanks chased Lefty Grove and scored four runs in the eighth.

Returning to Boston, the Red Sox went crazy with the heat and blistered the Senators twice, 4 to 1 and 11 to 4. The Sox clouted 29 hits while Ruffing and Morris held the Nats to 11. Tait, Boston outfielder, had a perfect average at bat with five hits in the nightcap.

In the only other game scheduled, the New York Giants captured a wild 11 to 8 slugfest from the Phillies.

FIRST MATCH PLAY SLATED FOR TODAY

Qualifying Rounds Completed in Ohio State Amateur Golf Tournament

Youngstown, June 28—The first round of match play for the Ohio State Amateur Golf championship was to start on the Youngstown Country club course here today following the qualifying rounds played yesterday. Eddie Bruch, Cleveland, star of the Kirtland Country club added 77 to his 77 of Tuesday and finished next with a total of 154 in the 36-hole qualifier. Harold Weber, Toledo was second with 156 and T. M. Bray, Youngstown and J. W. Munro, Akron tied for third place with 157 each.

Bruch's opponent in match play this morning will be C. W. Salisbury, Mt. Vernon. Munro is matched to play Joe Wells, East Liverpool.

At the meeting of the Ohio Golf Association last night, Brooksh Country club at Canton was selected for next year's state amateur championship tournament. According to the custom of the association by selecting Parker Campbell, Toledo vice president of the organization, Toledo will get the 1930 tournament.

W. H. Crawford, Canton, was elected president and F. Stanley Crooks, Columbus was re-elected secretary.

Joe Wells, East Liverpool; John Herron, Akron; C. W. Weber, Youngstown; Al Baumgartner, Cincinnati; O. L. Brailey, Toledo and Frank Pelton, Cleveland were elected on the executive board.

The Anglo-Saxons gave names to many localities from their supposed resemblance to parts of the human body, as headland, a neck of land, a tongue of land, the mouth of a river, the brow of a hill, the foot of a hill, an arm of the sea, and so on. Battersea was once known as Peter's Eye, or Peter's Island; Chelsea was Chelsy, eye, and Bermondsey was Bermondseye all of them having been originally islands.

Another social leader chooses
Old Gold ... when Mrs. Sidney Borg makes the Blindfold test

"The charitable activities in which I am engaged make it necessary for me to meet with women at all kinds of functions. I am often invited to smoke, but I smoke so little that my throat protests immediately unless the cigarette is very mild. So it was with particular delight that I discovered OLD GOLD in the blindfold test. I chose it at once . . . and from now on it will be my exclusive favorite."

Madeleine Borg

MRS. BORG was asked to smoke each of the four leading brands, alternating her tests with coffee between smokes. Only one question was asked: "Which one do you like best?"

MRS. SIDNEY BORG . . . nationally known for her social and charitable activities . . . chairman of the women's division, Federated Jewish Charities . . . chairman of the Jewish Big Sisters.

Made from the finest leaves of the tobacco plant

What is this quality that tells . . . even in the dark?

OLD GOLD'S honey-like smoothness . . . that's the test of it. But this cool and fragrant charm can come only from the best leaves of the tobacco plant. No heavy, coarse top-leaves . . . no withered ground-leaves. That's why OLD GOLDS are different . . . better . . . why you can pick them with your eyes closed.

Fighting Heart Keeps Erie, Pa., Battler in Ring Six Rounds

Meadville, Pa., June 28—Max E. Strub, of Erie, today held a 10-round decision over Mike Ballerino, N. J., former junior lightweight champion, because of his fighting heart, which kept him in the ring at Conneaut Lake Park last night for six rounds after injuries to both hands forced him to resort to defensive fighting altogether.

A crowd of 3500 watched the former champion lose to the game little Erie battler.

In the preliminaries, Jimmy Reed, of Erie, 132 lbs., took all six rounds to his set-to with Al Holtzman, Youngstown, and Johnny Corbett, Youngstown, 135 lbs., knocked out Don Vincent, Scranton, in the first round of their match.

Nando Tassi, Italian light-heavyweight, scored technical knockout over Wyoming Warner, Cheyenne cowboy, (2).

New York, June 28—Industrial stocks demonstrated their market strength today in spite of the handicap of a 7½ per cent call loan renewal rate and heavy withdrawals of funds from the speculative market. Recoveries in General Motors, Radio and other market favorites extended all the way from three to five points bringing their total gains to a maximum 16 points within a week.

While short-covering of the bears was doubtless possible for a good share of buying demand for the active stocks today, commission houses also reported an excellent demand from the outside speculative centers which were prominent in the last sensational rise in prices. Having recuperated from the latest speculative storm, many public traders are again in the market, buying with discrimination their favorite stocks.

General Motors was again the undisputed leader of the bulls' ranks. The low priced motors, including Studebaker and Chrysler, were well bought about a point above the previous closing price. Atlantic Refining led the oils with a brilliant run-up to 137¾, for a three point gain. Case Threshing Machine scored a 15 point rise to above 320, leading the move in the high priced specialties. Radio topped 180, completing a 20 point comeback on the movement. Rails were inactive, but firm with the Southern Railway and New York Central in favorite positions.

Grain Market

TODAY'S REVIEW OF GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, June 28—Corn closed uneven on the Board of Trade yesterday and the balance of the list moderately lower. Trade in wheat was moderate, and the market moved within a narrow range. Prices were lower most of the day despite the firmness at Liverpool and further rains in Kansas and Oklahoma. Locals and commission houses were on both sides of the market. There was some selling credited to the Northwest. Movement of new wheat in the Southwest is rapidly increasing, with arrivals of over 200 cars at three markets with harvesting reported started in scattered parts of Kansas and a little cutting claimed in southern Nebraska. The weather forecasts is for unsettled conditions over the greater part of the belt. Crop conditions in the Northwest, both sides of the international line generally favorable. Liverpool closed ⅜@¾c higher, and Buenos Aires was ½c lower at mid-session. Export demand was again moderate.

At the close, wheat was ⅝@1c lower; corn ⅜ up to ⅝ lower; oats ⅛@⅜ ⅜c lower; rye unchanged to 1½c off. Winnipeg futures were ⅝@1⅝c lower.

The cash wheat market was quiet and inactive. Arrivals were only 2 cars and were applied on previous contracts. The trading basis was unchanged but firm. Local shipping sales were 18,000 bu. The Swiss government was reported inquiring for offers of 100,000 bu. new wheat. Exporters bought 120,000 bu. Gulf wheat late Tuesday. Stocks of wheat at Minneapolis for four days decreased 350,000 bu. Canadian country marketings Tuesday were 344,000 bu. against 482,000 bu. last year. Primary receipts were 847,000 bu. against 501,000 bu. last week and 1,188,000 bu. a year ago.

The corn market moved within a narrow range after the first hour of trading. The July delivery was higher. September steady and December lower. Commission houses and locals were on both sides in a moderate way. Weather conditions over the belt generally favorable and new crop prospects bright. Cash demand for corn was fair with the trading basis unchanged to 1c lower. There were 20,000 bu. booked to arrive.

Local shipping sale of corn were 103,000 bu. and warehouse receipts were canceled Tuesday for the shipment of 59,585 bu. Stocks of corn at Minneapolis for four days decreased 53,000 bu. Primary receipts were 904,000 bu. against 499,000 bu. last week and 734,000 bu. last year.

In the cash market wheat was steady; corn steady to 1½c up; oats steady; rye dull; barley quiet.

KLAN BURIED UNDER CONFETTI OF HOUSTON

Democratic Convention Happy-Go-Luckiest in Party's History

Houston, Tex., June 28—The Ku Klux Klan is buried politically today beneath the multi-colored carnival confetti of the happy-go luckiest Democratic convention in history.

The rank and file of the party came to Houston disposed to believe the best of everyone, and harmony was in the air of sunny Texas. They brought more bands than ever have come upon a convention city in modern times and began forthwith to play "He's A Jolly Good Fellow," under the hotel windows as early as 4 a. m. and as late as 5 the next morning. They filled the air with "Ramona," "Highways Are Happy Ways" and "My Blue Heaven" until it was just natural to laugh right out loud at the slightest provocation.

When they went into convention, the the spotless white hood which was almost slipped over the head of the Democratic donkey at Madison Square Garden four years ago was handed back as a mortuary shroud and the spirit of the hooded night rider shimmered out of Sam Houston hall holding its ghostly sides for laughter over the mournful funeral dirge of—

"East Side, West Side, All Around the Town."

Nobody can be "a good listener" to someone who talks all the time.

MARIONITES PLAN EXTENSIVE TOURS

Local Vacationists To Be Seen in Many Parts of the United States

Marionites will be seen in nearly every portion of the United States, as well as parts of Canada, during the summer if the extensive automobile tours being planned here at the present time are taken.

Information regarding fishing, camping, pleasure, business trips and other manners of automobile tours is being sought by prospective vacationers of Marion County at the local auto club.

While last year the majority of Marion tourists chose eastern trips so far this summer the large number are planning trips through the west, according to Mrs. Della V. Gallagher, secretary of the club.

Contrary to the custom of past years the greater number of Marion tourists plan to stop at hotels and tourists' inns along the route rather than "camp out."

Two southern trips are included in the large number for which the Auto Club has already supplied information. J. L. Prore and family recently returned home from Jacksonville, Fla., and southern points. M. L. McDaniel and family also returned home recently after a tour through West Virginia and Kentucky.

Another Marion party is planning an eastern trip which will take it through West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Maryland, New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Maine, Vermont and will include a return trip by way of Montreal, Canada.

Among the interesting short trips suggested by Mrs. Gallagher for vacationers as yet undecided on the route they will take, include the trip to Windsor, Canada, by way of Detroit, to Niagara Falls by way of Cleveland, returning by way of Wheeling, W. Va.

RADIO "AIR" COSTLY

RADIO advertising is being accepted readily by many manufacturers as a new medium for keeping the name of their products before the public and has solved a problem that for many years faced the broadcasting stations.

Although advertising charges for all the big broadcasting systems is not known, one of the groups advertises an hour on the air at a cost of $5,000. This includes all talent to appear on the program.

For many years it was a much discussed subject just how broadcasters were to finance their programs. Many of the stations were operated for the sole value of publicity obtained by the owners.

When the radio first made its appearance in the home and broadcasting was in its infancy, operators of stations found no trouble in obtaining talent at no cost whatever. It was no difficult feat to keep the station going with programs furnished free by individuals and organizations.

As soon as the novelty of the thing wore off and the demand of the public for better programs became greater, it was necessary for stations to hire all talent and this run into great sums of money, especially for the higher class artists.

Today the most accomplished musicians, singers and speakers are brought into the home through the medium of sponsored programs through many stations connected with one network.

Many of the smaller stations secure a nice revenue from home town business houses in the same manner although the amount charged for the "air" is not quite so great in this case.

This plan is being accepted with but little kick on the part of radio listeners although the chain idea is not so popular. It is quite disgusting to sit down in your favorite chair before the radio only to find that every station that comes in good and clear is broadcasting the same program.

It would probably be a good idea to eliminate many of the stations on the chains to relieve some of the congestion existing in the air today. Four or five well placed radio stations would seem enough to broadcast the same program. However, this is one of the points that will no doubt be solved in future years.

"CLUB" REGULAR

Do they stay there all night, or at what unearthly hour of the morning do they trundle down to their "club" for the daily confab?

At 7:30 o'clock in the morning they are seen there and at that hour of night, they're still there. It must be a gift to have the wonderful art of conversation down to such a fine point that all-day, every day, the same gang can gather and hold forth at great length.

These patrons of the courthouse steps are notable in that from generation to generation they have been there, and from all indications they'll be there until the steps wear away.

UNUSUAL CONTEST

One Marion motorist encountered a strange highway "thumber" on a drive between Cleveland and Marion recently. The "thumber," who "hopped" a ride with the Marion man, gave his destination as Chicago, his home as New York City and said he was making the trip by means of "bumming" in three days to prove to three doubtful friends that it could be done. The three friends had boarded a train in New York City and agreed to meet him in Chicago the evening of the third day. "And then I win $100," he said.

HOODOO OVERCOME

The thirteen hoodoo threatening the lives and fortunes of a party of transients enroute from Kenton to Marion Tuesday was overcome despite the fact that 13 of them rode in a solitary bus.

All professed uneasiness, the driver included, and were relieved only when the spell was broken by an additional passenger who boarded the bus just 13 miles from Kenton and 13 from Marion.

NO SCALES

There are no keys to the city of Marion which is all the more reason why celebrities should come for a visit. But even though keys are lacking what Marion needs is a pair of scales for Lady Justice who stands on the peak of the Marion County courthouse.

Lady Justice stands there a symbol of the unbiased decisions given in the courts in the building below her. But her silhouette against the sky is not complete for she is lacking scales with which to weigh the justice of the county.

"I was advised to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment so purchased some, and in less than two weeks he was completely healed." (Signed) Mrs. A. Larson, 127 Wilson St., Joliet, Ill.

The Tire Supreme for TRUCKS and BUSES

Firestone

Gum-Dipped Heavy Duty Pneumatics hold all world records for SAFETY, DURABILITY, MILEAGE

Truck Records

A. J. Mortemer of McBrides, Mich., has to date received 51,000 miles from a set of Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires on his truck. For seventeen months these tires have been every day on a milk route, carrying two and three ton loads.

"Cannon Ball" Baker, in 1927, drove a 2-ton GMC truck, fully loaded, from Atlantic to the Pacific—3,693 miles in 137 hours and 36 minutes. This fastest and longest truck run on record was made on Firestone Gum-Dipped Heavy Duty Pneumatics.

Bus Records

The Black Diamond Bus Line, Brownsville, Texas, report a set of Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires on a 20-passenger bus, ran over 83,000 miles.

Johnson Storage & Distributing Company, Fort Worth, Texas, received 63,000 miles continuous service on a set of Firestone Heavy Duty Truck Tires.

The world's longest bus line operating from Portland, Ore., to St. Louis, Mo., by way of El Paso, Texas, uses these tires exclusively, with remarkable savings of tire costs.

The Parmelee Company of Chicago since 1924 have obtained the remarkable average of better than 35,000 miles from Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires on all vehicles in their passenger and baggage transfer fleets.

THESE records talk straight BUSINESS to the man who carries the responsibility for operating costs on truck and bus fleets. These records actually SHOW how Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires are smashing down the overhead on haulage—and that's what every truck and bus owner wants to know.

PERFORMANCE—that's the thing!—not mere claims or promises. How much per hauling mile? Tire buyers are entitled to the cold, hard facts, and Firestone Tires are delivering them in mileage service never before approached in the history of tire building.

Firestone has won outstanding leadership in both the truck and passenger car fields by clearly demonstrated engineering and manufacturing superiority. Firestone has pioneered every important advance in tire construction since the introduction of pneumatics. It was Firestone that won the fight against foreign monopoly of raw rubber, gained control of sources of supply and forced prices down to the low level on which they are today.

As a result of Firestone's own improved processes of manufacture, and the scientific engineering of definite types and sizes of tires to fully serve each specific purpose, new records—records unheard of a few years ago—are being piled up by literally hundreds of thousands of car and truck owners and operators.

Four hundred great Bus Lines—including the largest fleets in New York—Chicago—Cleveland—St. Louis—Los Angeles—San Antonio—New Orleans—Portland, Oregon—Washington, D.C., and many other leading cities—all have adopted Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires, and are enjoying the lowest cost per mile record, with safety, speed and economical [illegible]

HULL IS HAILED AS "SECOND JACKSON"

Colonel Hannah Places Former Committee Chairman's Name Before Convention

Sen. Houston Hall, Houston, Tex., June 28—"A second Andrew Jackson" was the description applied to Cordell Hull when his name was placed in nomination before the Democratic national convention by Colonel Harvey H. Hannah of Tennessee.

Colonel Hannah made a departure from the usual nominating speeches by devoting most of his speech in praise of Hull to a scorching attack upon the Republican record at Washington.

Colonel Hannah declared that to Cordell Hull should go the major credit for drafting the income tax amendment.

"It was his all powerful mind," he said, "that drafted the income tax law that has stood the acid test of the courts. He is probably regarded as the highest authority in America on the question of taxation and finance.

Hailed as Matchless Son

"It was this great Tennessean who was elected chairman of our national committee in 1921 and served until 1924, that brought together our scattered ranks, financed and paid off every dollar that we owed without contribution from corruption funds. We needed no Senator Borah to pass the hat to take up a collection to pay back Sinclair or any other grafter.

"I, therefore, present, in the name of Tennessee, to this convention her matchless son, one of the foremost statesmen in America; plain, simple, modest, a mountaineer, an Anglo-Saxon, coming from the same breed and with the same ability that gave the nation Andrew Jackson, James K. Polk and Woodrow Wilson—the Honorable Cordell Hull of Tennessee."

SENATOR GEORGE IS PUT IN NOMINATION

Crisp Appeals to Democrats to Wipe Out Sectional Lines

Houston, Tex., June 28—Appealing for elimination of sectional lines in the selection of a Democratic standard bearer, Representative Charles R. Crisp of Georgia, last night nominated Senator Walter F. George, Georgia's favorite son, for president as the Southland's candidate.

Crisp, the son of a famous Democrat, who was speaker of the national house of representatives in the Cleveland administration, made an earnest appeal for the party to nominate a man who could carry the banner of Democracy onward without compromise or yielding to expediency.

"Never in the history of our country," Crisp declared, "has it been as imperative that the Democrats be restored to power.

Democracy, Honesty Synonymous

"Democracy and honesty in public office are synonymous. Democracy believes in property rights, but places human rights before materialism; abhors a government by bureaucracy and believes that government best which least interferes with private initiative and local self-government."

The Democratic Georgia, Crisp declared, covets the honor of naming the "Southern-American presidential nominee," because it believes it has the man best qualified for the presidency.

"I represent to you a man who fully measures up to the high ideals of our party, a self made man, who by his own efforts obtained a college education, a man ruggedly honest, morally clean, of high ideals, of keen intellect, of culture and refinement, a sincere believer in the constitution and its enforcement, a man of extraordinary ability."

KONJOLA ENDED HER RHEUMATISM IN THREE WEEKS

And After a Year, Her Troubles Have Never Returned

MRS. JOHN TOBIAS

"I had been in bed with rheumatism for three months before I heard of Konjola, but after I started taking this medicine, I was on my feet again within two weeks and after the third week every ache and pain in my body was gone," writes Mrs. John Tobias, 315 Derree Road, Columbus, Ohio.

"Terrible pains centered in my left side from the hip down to the foot. My limbs were so sore and stiff that I could hardly move without suffering. These pains felt like someone jabbing hot knives in my side. I suffered all the torture a human being could bear. At night I would moan and cry from pain.

"My husband decided on Konjola as a last resort. I tried almost everything else without relief. You can imagine how happy I was when I felt the pains gradually growing less. All this happened over a year ago and none of my troubles have ever returned, so I can't praise this medicine too highly."

Konjola is different than any other known remedy in this section. It contains twenty-two juices extracted from natural plants which invigorate the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels to a more healthy action. The effect of Konjola on the entire system brings amazing relief in cases of suffering that had been going on for years. At the same time many weak and rundown systems have been restored to a new state of health through this compound. Such a vast number of men and women in this city have told of their experience with this new medical product until now Konjola is the most highly indorsed medicine that is known in this vicinity.

Konjola is strongly recommended here in Marion at Stump & Sams Pharmacy, and is also being sold by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this section.—Adv.

STATE REPUBLICANS HOLDING CONVENTION

"Vigorous, But Sane" Enforcement of All Laws Urged in Talk

DRAFTING PLATFORM

Says Wet-Dry Question Cannot Become a State Issue

Columbus, June 28—"Vigorous, but sane" enforcement of all laws, and abolition of Ohio's present system of justices' and mayors' courts are advocated in a proposed state platform submitted today by Attorney General Edward C. Turner to delegates attending the Republican state convention here today.

Turner, who is a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, was one of the leading opponents of the Marshall justice of the peace bill which was defeated at the statewide election last November. Asserting that, in view of existing federal laws, "the wet-dry question cannot become a state issue," Turner's proposed platform includes the recommendation that, "so long as it remains in the constitution and so long as congress maintains a law in pursuance thereof," the Eighteenth amendment to the federal constitution, decreeing prohibition, be enforced vigorously, but sanely.

Contains 27 Planks

There are 27 planks in Turner's proposed platform, including recommendations that paid lobbyists be outlawed; that campaign expenditures be limited; that provision be made for permanent registration of voters; that legislation be enacted providing for the graduated taxation of moneys, credits and intangibles; that the state constitution be amended so as to permit abolition of township offices and provide for the replacement of existing county offices by a commission-manager form of government, and immediate repeal of the Pence law which deals with the regulation of public utilities by the state government.

"On three former occasions, I have been called upon to take an active part in drafting a state platform," said Turner. "Each time, I found that no one had given the matter any previous consideration and there was more or less confusion about the situation.

Turner's Own Ideas

"It was especially true that the delegates generally were in the dark on the question of platform. Therefore, I have taken the liberty of putting into form my ideas of what a platform should contain," continued Turner.

"It is to be distinctly understood, however, that no attempt is made to usurp the prerogatives of the committee on resolutions, but, as the attorney general of the state and representative of the Republican party in that office, I feel that I ought to try to be helpful to the convention in giving the convention my ideas in concrete form," Turner declared.

The opinion prevailed among delegates that Turner's platform proposals will serve as the basis for activities by the convention's committee on resolutions when it convenes tonight for the purpose of drafting a platform to be submitted for ratification at tomorrow's session.

Ohio Republican Delegates Open Two-Day Convention in Columbus

Neil House ballroom, under the auspices of the Ohio Council of Republican Women, complimenting women delegates to the state convention.

In advance of the opening of the convention, delegates from each of the 22 Ohio congressional districts met in separate district caucuses for the purpose of selecting members of the standing committees on resolutions, credentials, permanent organization, and rules and order of business, and nominating candidates for presidential electors.

Meeting Scheduled

The resolutions committee is to meet at 8 o'clock tonight at the Deshler-Wallick hotel, to draft a proposed state platform.

The Republican State Central committee is expected to hold an informal session tonight at the Deshler-Wallick hotel.

At the closing session of the convention tomorrow morning, Rev. Mr. Haithcox is to voice the invocation and the Buckeye Women's Republican Glee club, Columbus, will sing. After taking action on committee reports, including adoption of a platform, selecting electoral college candidates, and determining upon a permanent organization, the convention will adjourn.

OFFICIAL UNABLE TO ATTEND INSTALLATION

Fred Hayner, vice president of the Eagles' lodge, who was unable to be present at the installation of officers, was formally installed at the bi-monthly meeting of the order, held last night. The installation services were in charge of B. B. Bush. One application for membership was received and plans were made for the initiation of a class at the next meeting, July 11. A luncheon was served at the conclusion of the meeting last night and plans were also made for a luncheon as a part of the program at the next meeting.

what environment surrounded Alfred E. Smith, for he would have been a great man under any condition.

"Governor Smith is living proof that Democracy can present leaders that are simple and yet great."

Ritchie paid high tribute to Governor Smith's personal magnetism and declared he did not believe any group of people could sit down and talk with the New York governor "and not vote for him" afterward.

When Massachusetts was reached on the roll call, Andrews J. Peters former mayor of Boston, came forward and also seconded the nomination of Governor Smith.

Then came Minnesota to add its word of support for the Smith movement. Andrew Nelson of Duluth spoke Minnesota's second to the nomination of the New York governor.

"The farmers of Minnesota spurn with contempt the platform adopted at Kansas City," said Nelson. "They know that they asked for bread and were handed a stone. Here they know they will get nourishing, economic bread."

Francis Reed's Name

When Missouri was reached, Charles M. Howell came forward and gave the convention the name of Senator James A. Reed.

The Missouri delegates came to their feet yelling and shaking cow bells as Howell stepped out in front of the microphones, and it was several minutes before he could proceed. The bands got going and in the midst of this prespeech demonstration there was produced from somewhere a big picture of the Missourian's "fighting face."

Howell's voice did not have the penetrating qualities necessary to reach the ends of the big hall and the big convention became noisy when he was about half through. Several times Senator Robinson had to come to his aid with requests for order and quiet.

Swing Around Again

They rattled the cow bells vigorously when Howell, after describing the "orgy of corruption at Washington" declared that "in this crisis we must have a man capable of carrying the war into the heart of the enemy country."

Howell concluded at 11:55 o'clock after having spoken for 35 minutes, and the Missouri delegation, with their state standard and a picture of their candidate, started a parade through the aisles. Florida joined in. The Reed parade was "dressed up" with American flags and a great canvas banner bearing the legend "Win With Reed."

After one swing about the hall to the raucous din of the Missouri cow bells, Oklahoma's standard was taken into the procession by the Reed men of that state.

The other delegations, however, stood fast and smiled and joked with the perspiring marchers.

On the second swing about the big area, a new banner made its appearance in the marching column:

"Turn the Rascals Out—Reed."

Procession Continues

Nebraska came into the show at the end of five minutes, and so did the Philippines' standard, although the six votes from the territory are listed in the Smith column.

There was a struggle over getting the Kansas standard into the march. Reed's friends in the Kansas alternate section wanted it to go in, but the Smith delegates objected and there was a scuffle which resulted in the snapping of the staff. The Reed alternate triumphantly carried it along, however.

The standard of the Kansas delegation stood fast and was not included in the procession.

Three bands were tooting away as if their lives depended upon it, but nobody could tell what the tunes were. The din of the cow bells was terrific. It sounded like New Year eve or Hallowe'en night.

The Kansas alternate standard was taken into the Reed demonstration by A. E. Hawes of Larned, Kas., and J. A. Butler of Kansas City, Kas. They declared there were 13 votes in the Kansas delegation for Reed.

The roll call went on. When Nebraska was called Eugene D. O'Sullivan of Omaha came forward and gave the convention the name of former Senator Gilbert N. Hitchcock, who led the League of Nations fight for Woodrow Wilson in the Senate eight years ago.

William Woodburn, chairman of the Nevada delegation, came forward when his state was called, and bespoke Nevada's faith in Governor Smith.

John H. McCooey, the Brooklyn leader, secured recognition when Woodburn finished and proposed a recess until 3 p. m. There were cries of "no," "no", from the floor.

When the convention recessed near midnight the roll call for candidates had only proceeded as far as Louisiana. The states below "L" have a half dozen candidates to present among them Senator James A Reed of Missouri and Congressman Cordell Hull of Tennessee, the nearest rivals to the New York governor. There was nobody in Houston today who believed that either, or that any of the others, had a ghost of a show for the nomination, but the Democrats are gluttons for oratory and hence the formalities will be observed.

Ohio Ready To Switch

Ohio and Kansas will go for Smith on the first ballot. Both were ready this morning to switch their votes at the conclusion of the first roll call if the Smith managers need them. Ohio has 48 votes of which 46 are at home always have the whole delegation on the ballot. Kansas has 20 votes and will cast them solidly for Reed on the first ballot. Kansas has only 10 votes in the convention but the Reed managers have arranged to have the other 10 cast by proxy.

Tammany Missing

They hardly paid any attention to hi The Tammany Tiger is in the amendency and it is his time to growl.

"Tear Roof Off"

A short time later, when Franklin D. Roosevelt put the name of Governor Smith formally before the convention, they figuratively tore the roof off Sam Houston's big new hall. Four years ago at Madison Square Garden it was a different story.

The name of Senator Walter F. George Georgia's favorite son, was the first to go before the convention. The reception it got was mild. The state standards of Georgia, Florida, North Carolina and Alabama joined in the George procession, but the rest stood pat. Even three bands playing "Dixie" with their hearts in it couldn't draw the rest in.

California Leads

The Georgians insisted that Tennessee come into the demonstration, but a lanky Tennessee delegate shouted to those who were trying to seize the state standard: "You are too dry."

California led the Smith procession when Roosevelt presented the governor's name. Four years ago California went down the line for McAdoo to the bitter end. Maryland was only a second behind, with Senator Millard E. Tydings toting the Maryland standard and leading the cheering.

Twelve state standards, however, were kept out of the mad Smith parade through the aisles although delegates from each of the missing states were participants. The southern states, Mississippi, Tennessee, Alabama, North Carolina, Georgia, Virginia, Texas and South Carolina, held fast to their standards and the favorite sons states of Indiana, Kansas, Nebraska and Missouri stayed out for obvious reasons.

Cripple Writes Cane

At that, the night didn't pass without a fight. There is Smith sentiment in all of the southern delegations to a greater or less degree, and when "Mike" Morrison, a Mississippi alternate grabbed up the Mississippi standard on the parade there was a scuffle over it. Senator Hubert Stephens, a cripple who was guardian of the standard used his cane in the melee before the police finally escorted Morrison from the hall.

Names of few candidates were formally presented to the convention before a halt was called on the wearisome round of oratory—George, Smith, Ayres and Woollen. Several of the seconding speeches for Smith were made by Mrs. Nellie Taylor-Ross, of Wyoming, Thomas J. Hickey of California, Senator Barkley of Kentucky and Mrs. Emma Guffey Miller of Pennsylvania. More were to follow at today's session.

The leaders planned to get all the nominating and seconding speeches out of the way today and they were hopeful of getting the platform late this afternoon or tonight. If their hopes are fulfilled, it means the end of the convention Friday.

SABELLI PREPARES FOR OCEAN FLIGHT

Flier Takes Off Today on 24-Hour Test Before Hop

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., June 28—The Bellanca seaplane Roma in which Chevalier Cesare Sabelli plans a nonstop flight to Rome, took off here at 8:20 o'clock this morning on what was announced as a 24-hour test flight.

The Roma started from the east end of the runway and left the ground after running about 1,200 feet. The take-off was described by observers as perfect. After leaving the ground, the plane flew due west in a straight line for about a mile before turning back toward the field.

According to previous announcements by Chevalier Sabelli, the plane will remain aloft in the vicinity of this field for 24 hours to enable the crew, which, in addition to Chevalier Sabelli, comprises Roger O. Williams, co-pilot, Capt. Pierore Bonelli, navigator, and Dr. L. M. Pirulli, physician, to gather data on endurance flying for use on the Rome flight. It has been announced that the start for Rome will be made, weather permitting, about July 4.

PLATFORM WILL BE PRESENTED TODAY

Farm Leaders' Request for Approval of Equalization Fee Principle Endorsed scandals of the past eight years, was one of the features of the platform.

A plank, proposed by Walsh, attacked big monopolies and trusts.

All planks were approved by the subcommittee except that dealing with labor. Officials of labor organizations were called to meet with the committee today to present their views, after which the labor plank will be drafted.

The platform must be approved by the entire committee before it is submitted to the convention.

Three Proposals

The prohibition plank was the last approved by the committee. At the outset three different prohibition proposals were submitted: (1) Repeal of the Eighteenth amendment and modification of the Volstead law by the vote; (2) A home dry plank, by Gov. Dan Moody of Texas, and (3) A law enforcement plank by the harmony workers.

This last program had been agreed upon by the Smith forces in an effort to reach a compromise.

Governor Moody held until the end for the home dry prohibition and even as the committee recessed in the early morning he had not fallen into line on the plank adopted, it was declared.

"I have not yet determined whether I will bring in a minority report," said Moody. "I must await developments."

Slowly, however, the other militant drys on the committee, such as Senators Glass of Virginia and Caraway of Arkansas swung over to the law enforcement idea, and thus a slam-bang fight was avoided.

The wets made a gesture for the dripping plank but did not press it hard.

Organized labor appeared before the platform committee and demanded a comprehensive plank which included a declaration for a five-day week for labor and 2.75 per cent beer.

Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor, appealing for the five-day clause, told the committee that organized labor was committed to this change "as soon as social and economic conditions would permit."

William Green, president of the federation, devoted his time to a declaration exempting farm and labor organizations from the operation of the anti-trust laws.

"The framers of the anti-trust laws," he said, "did not intend that farm and labor organizations should be brought within the conspiracy statute.

"This has been done as the result of liberal interpretation by supreme court of the United States.

"Labor has suffered more under this law than has large combinations of capital."

Other demands made by the labor leaders included an anti-injunction plank; continuation of restricted immigration; federal control of the bituminous coal industry; an anti-child labor amendment to the constitution; public works during periods of unemployment; liberal laws for disabled ex-service men; a free speech declaration and opposition to industrial conscription in time of war.

Don't Make a Toy Out of Baby
-Babies Have Nerves-
By RUTH BRITTAIN

Much of the nervousness in older children can be traced to the over-stimulation during infancy, caused by regarding baby as a sort of animated toy for the amusement of parents, relatives and friends. Baby may be played with, but not for more than a quarter of an hour to an hour daily. Beyond that, being handled, tickled, caused to laugh or even scream, will sometimes result in vomiting and invariably causes irritability, crying or sleeplessness.

Fretfulness, crying and sleeplessness from this cause can easily be avoided by treating baby with more consideration, but when you just can't see what is making baby restless or upset, better give him a few drops of pure, harmless Castoria. It's amazing to see how quickly it calms baby's nerves and soothes him to sleep; yet it contains no drugs or opiates. It is purely vegetable—the recipe is on the wrapper. Leading physicians prescribe it for colic, cholera, diarrhea, constipation, gas on stomach and bowels, feverishness, loss of sleep and all other "upsets" of babyhood. Over 25 million bottles used a year shows its overwhelming popularity.

With each bottle of Catsoria, you get a book on Motherhood, worth its weight in gold. Look for Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the package so you'll get genuine Castoria. There are many imitations.—Adv.

Daily Proverb—"Nature never says one thing and science another."

"South Is Dry Only in Theory, Houston's Visitors Discover," says a head. But why particularize like that?

Our Democratic friends in convention in Houston are beginning to suspect that the weatherman down there is a Republican.

Even Senator Jim Reed himself must have begun to suspect that he is not quite so politically dry as he thought he was.

Those responsible for the story that George Washington belonged to Tammany should have remembered that he is no longer here to defend himself.

The shooting down by gangsters of twelve men in different districts of Chicago Tuesday night isn't exactly what we would call an ideal bit of preliminary advertising for the world fair the Windy City is planning.

"Roof Leaks and Rain Floods Hall," reads a headline over a Houston convention story. Well, wasn't it anticipated that it would be a wet convention?

At the retrial of a breach-of-promise proceeding in which a Portsmouth school teacher was awarded a $10,000 judgment against an automobile dealer of that place, the jury raised the amount of her heart balm to $18,375.75. As a money-maker, her heart has her head beaten to a frazzle.

A Camden man is seeking $1,100,000 damages for alienation of his wife's affections. That may be the market price in New Jersey, but it's liable to look a trifle excessive to Main Street.

If we get the Houston view, neither the jam nor the ninety-plus heat would be so bad in the absence of the other. It's the combination which is taking the pep out of the visitors.

Mrs. Clem Shaver, wife of the chairman of the Democratic national committee, is down in Houston advocating a dry fight to the finish. The Shavers are a bit remindful of "a house divided against itself."

We may consider the silly season as having set in, a Kokomo, Indiana, wire stating that twenty-eight farmers at a banquet out there had expressed opposition to Hoover. Next we will probably hear of a score of kiln-dried prohibitionists voicing opposition to Al. Smith.

Airplane Damage to Property.

What are the rights of one whose property is damaged by an airplane? Is such a property-owner justified in holding the plane until the damage done his property is made good? How far may he go to prevent further damage being done to his property by the maneuvering of the same plane to get it into the air again.

All these questions came up, several days ago, when an airplane manned by its owner and a mechanic took a nosedive into a field of potatoes near Curtiss field on Long Island. Both escaped with minor injuries, and at once proceeded to make temporary repairs with the intention of hopping off again.

However, before they could get away, the owner of the field had gathered a squad of farm hands and neighbors, all of whom were armed with shotguns, and made a demand for $300 for the damage sustained by him. The owner of the machine didn't have $300 and so told the potato farmer, whereupon the latter ordered the two airmen off his property, stating that they could take out the plane when they turned over the amount demanded, and he placed armed guards over it to prevent its removal surreptitiously.

There may be question concerning the measure of damages. The amount demanded seems a rather large one for damage done by the crash of the airplane. Possibly the potato farmer included the damage which would be done in taking off from the field, as the two airmen admitted they planned to do, or dragging it out of the field to make a hop-off elsewhere. He may have been arbitrary in setting the amount of damages, but, assuming him to have been fair in that regard, was he justified in holding the machine by force and arms?

Unlike the case of the owner of a fine automobile which is wrecked by being run into by a judgment-proof driver in a ten-dollar excuse for a car, this farmer had on his premises ample security for his claims and he held onto it, and many will be inclined to sympathize with him in the course he followed. The novelty of the plane has worn off to large extent. It is now a commercial, sporting or pleasure vehicle. Certainly it can not be held that the owner of an airplane is to be permitted to do damage to the property of another without making that damage whole, but it is to be questioned if the one suffering loss from constitute himself both court and jury and, having assessed the damage done, carry his findings into execution.

A Challenge.

How many men and women will take advantage of their voting privileges in November? There are approximately 58,000,000 citizens eligible to have a voice in the selection of a president and vice president. How many of this vast multitude will actually go to the polls?

Figures disclose that in the last two presidential elections only about half of those entitled to participate have taken advantage of their right of franchise. During the quarter of a century preceding the civil war, and for twenty-five years after the close of that war, the United States held the world's record for voting efficiency.

The vote cast in pre-civil war elections, when the slavery issue dominated the politics of the country, and during the reconstruction period, averaged well in excess of eighty per cent. of the qualified electorate.

During the eighties the voting efficiency in the United States began to decline. One of the contributing factors to this decline undoubtedly was the practical disfranchisement of the negro, for whose freedom many gallons of human blood had been sacrificed.

But since 1880 the only notable interruptions that have occurred in the declining tendency were in 1896, when the money issue was paramount, and in 1916, when the election appeared to present a choice between participation and non-participation by the United States in the war then being fought so bitterly in Europe.

The lowest percentage so far registered at a national election came in 1920 when only 49.3 per cent. of the qualified voters went to the polls. Some states cast only a little more than five per cent. of their votes.

Indifference on the part of the voters has been a source of complaint in foreign countries for many years, but political apathy, as measured by general election returns, appears to be more pronounced in the United States at the moment than in any of the other world democracies. England, France and Germany are away ahead of America in point of votes cast.

Here, assuredly, is a challenge to the form of government which has made the United States the outstanding nation of the world. A form of political organization based upon universal suffrage, is a comparatively recent development. It did not exist in the republics of antiquity, for there the franchise was restricted to a very small minority. Nor had it any existence anywhere down to the late years of the eighteenth century.

It must be remembered that even the constitution of the United States does not enjoin universal suffrage. It merely provides that "all persons born or naturalized in the United States and subject to the jurisdiction thereof are citizens of the United States and of the state wherein they reside." But that's as far as it goes. The constitution confers citizenship, but not suffrage. So there is danger that by neglecting to vote large numbers of citizens may finally throw away their right to vote.

Of course the fact that very large numbers of qualified voters voluntarily disfranchise themselves by remaining away from the polls may be taken by some as a matter of very grave concern. William B. Munro, in a recent issue of the National Municipal Review, says:

"It is the theory of popular government that every adult citizen shall have the privilege of voting, but I take issue with the doctrine that either the theory or practice of popular government requires every one to exercise this privilege whenever his rulers offer him the privilege to do so."

Intensity of interest among all classes of voters in the issues presented in the current election—in the 1928 presidential election—would seem to justify the hope and expectation that a larger percentage of the qualified voters will go to the polls than at any national election since 1896.

Keaton tells us that the Ohio onion crop prospects are good. "You who have tears to shed, prepare to shed them now!"

According to Washington advices, Candidate Hoover plans a short campaign, his intention being to open real activities about September 1. That's typical of Hoover. Why take four months to do that which may be done effectively in two?

Three bandits, who held up a taxicab driver in New York City at 3 o'clock Monday morning, were on their way to Sing Sing at 3 o'clock the next afternoon, one to serve from 7½ to seventeen years, another from fifteen to thirty years and the third from twenty to forty years. That's the kind of medicine to cure banditry.

The worst feature of the Washington announcement, that the spring pig crop is seven per cent. or 4,000,000 pigs short, is that our butcher friends will probably construe it as justification for an adjustment of pork prices.

Right upon the heels of the Lexington's record run, the airplane carrier, Saratoga, shows a speed of 33.42 knots an hour on her final acceptance trials when using but 145,000 of her available 180,000 horse-power. What battleships that pair would have made had they not been sacrificed in promoting the joint cause of peace and governmental economy!

Bela Kun, who made Hungary run red with blood, has been sentenced by a Vienna court to three months in prison and been credited with the two months he has been imprisoned since his arrest. Possibly it didn't occur to the court to administer a gentle slap to one of the notorious red's wrists.

A Wilmington man has begun a suit for $500 damages against the owner of a cow which ran into his automobile and did it damage to that amount, and we assume that the next thing we true aristocrats know the automobilists will be trying to mulct us or our estates, as the case may be, when we are not lucky enough to get out of their way and muss up their machines a bit.

FLOTSAM FROM THE CONVENTIONS.

These Birth Marks.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Mothers have many necessary things to worry about yet they worry about unnecessary things as well. While it is foolish to do this, it is perfectly natural.

Every expectant mother hears stories about this or that deformity being caused by acts of the mother. It is almost certain that every birthmark will be traced to something the mother ate, or some other equally impossible cause.

As a matter of fact the normal expectant mother is not to blame for the physical defects of the newborn baby. Many a young woman has made herself miserable for months because she was afraid of "marking" her baby.

Today I am interested in birthmarks. I want to say a few things about them.

Most such marks are known to the doctors as a form of "nevus" or "angioma." These are caused by a thickening of the blood vessels, or by an increase in the number of blood vessels in one spot.

One of the most common inquiries sent to me is about birthmarks. Some mother has been watching a tiny red spot somewhere on the skin of her child grow larger, or she is distressed because since birth a large area of skin has been affected this way.

It is very unusual for a birthmark to remain the same size all through life. For example, a spot the size of a pinhead may spread to be the size of your hand.

In every case excitement makes the discolored spot more conspicuous. With the increase in blood supplied the region, the spot becomes more pronounced.

What can be done?

Where the birthmark is small, excellent results have been accomplished by use of the electric needle. This treatment almost invariably effects a permanent cure.

With the great progress made in using X-ray and radium, wonderful results have been accomplished. In every case, however, the application must be done only by an expert.

More drastic measures have been employed where the marks are on the face or neck. Plastic surgery has been successfully employed in some of these cases. Then there is an actual removal of more or less skin tissue, including the defect.

Let me give each of you mothers a word of advice: If you find that your baby has some sort of blemish or mark on its body, go to the doctor at once. Many things can be done while the child is young to correct such a condition. In this way you may save years of suffering and humiliation for your dearly beloved child.

I beg of you to put it out of your mind that some act or experience of yours has been responsible for the marking of your baby. There isn't a word of truth in such a theory. Science long ago destroyed this teaching.

There is a reasonable explanation for every such mark, but believe me, dear mother, it isn't your fault or any misconduct of mind or body that has accomplished this.

A. R. E. Q.—I am a woman of seventy-two with diabetes and am greatly troubled with my feet. They become burning hot and I have enlarged joints and bunions. What would you advise?

A.—Bathing the feet in warm water to which a little alum has been added will prove soothing and restful. Wearing broad-toed shoes should help the bunion and enlarged joint. Wearing a pad of cotton between the great toe and the second will relieve pressure on the joint and give relief in many instances.—Copyright, 1928, Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Editorial Comment.

REACHING AGREEMENT.

The governments invited by Secretary Kellogg to subscribe to his proposal for an anti-war treaty are now ready to admit that the covenants of the League of Nations and Locarno do not present insuperable obstacles to such a course on their part. At the same time, Mr. Kellogg seems to have been persuaded that the signatories to the covenant and to Locarno can not entirely ignore their obligations.

Differences of view on this subject required months of discussion and threatened at times to frustrate the Kellogg plan. The preamble of the Kellogg draft, now accepted as a basis for negotiations, is designed to take care of the situation. It reaffirms that the right of defense can in no wise be curtailed by treaty, being a right inherent in every sovereign and independent nation. While emphasizing this truism, the preamble refrains from conceding that either the covenant or Locarno grants anything like an affirmative right to go to war except when a violation by one or more of the contracting parties has occurred.

Mr. Kellogg seems to be in agreement with the other governments as to the necessity of embodying this rule in his anti-war treaty. The United States is not surrendering its right of self-defense in any degree or form; neither does it expect other nations to do so. The Kellogg treaty is to be binding upon all the signatories, but it can never tie the hands of any one or more of them if one of the parties to the pact defies its obligations. In that event, each of the signatories is to be free to resort to whatever measures may be needful for the defense of its interests.

The preamble of the proposed treaty, containing these clarifications, will be as integrally a part of the pact as its other terms. Without it, the terms proper could be nothing but an illusion, and a source of misunderstandings. The success of the movement may easily depend upon the precision and frankness with which the participants specify what they undertake as well as what they do not undertake to do.—Detroit Free Press.

WHEN COOLIDGE CHOOSES WORDS.

Democratic fault-finders have been cavilling at President Coolidge's telegram to Hoover: "Your great ability will enable you to serve our party with marked distinction." They try to make the point that a president is expected to serve, not his party, but the nation.

But Mr. Coolidge was not referring to the presidency; he was extolling the aptitude of Mr. Hoover as a presidential candidate. It is eminently accurate to say that his great ability will enable him to serve his party with marked distinction. As time passes and the pre-convention campaign for the nomination is better understood, Mr. Hoover will be seen by more and more observers to possess just what the president says he possesses—great ability as a candidate, as a nominee. And that is the kind of man a great political party likes to nominate. That his great ability would enable him, when elected, to serve his country as well, follows after.

Mr. Coolidge knew exactly what he wanted to say, and he said it. Catch him making and ethical error as between two kinds of service dependent on great ability.—Minneapolis Journal.

Our Star.

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS.

From the stern deck of a liner in mid-Atlantic, deserted because nearly all the passengers had hastened down to dinner, I had, in the latter part of May, a vision of our star which we call the sun that was a revelation, although I have studied the sun for years.

The great orb was nearing its setting. Huge, round clouds filled half the atmosphere, and from behind one of them spokes of sunlight projected like the golden spikes around the head of Jove. The edges of the cloud in places were agleam with intense light—a bordering of fire. The ship's course at the time was directly east, so that her long wake, stretching behind over an almost calm sea, lay like a parallel of latitude drawn upon the globe of the earth itself, while at the same time the gorgeous spectacle of the sun-fired cloud threw a path of light on the water which marked, like a great circle on the terrestrial sphere, the projected line of the ecliptic. This path of sunlight evidently met the east-and-west line made by the ship's wake at the same angle as that of the sun's northern declination at the date—about twenty degrees. It was as if an almighty finger had drawn these lines upon the smooth round of the sea to illustrate for celestial spectators the primary facts of astronomical geography.

The mental impression was overwhelmingly grand and fascinating. But, as I continued to gaze at the strange sight another impression, still more potent, obliterated the first. It was subjective in its origin. It arose in the mind, suggested, but not produced, by the spectacle of the sunburst from behind the cloud. The mere mensuration facts about the sun are familiar to all who possess the least knowledge of astronomy, such as that the sun is an incandescent body, 866,000 miles in diameter, situated at a mean distance of 93,000,000 miles from its little dependent, the earth, and that although it produces daylight on the earth while the stars produce only starlight, yet the majority of the stars are in reality greater—many of them thousands of times greater—light givers than the sun. They are dimmed by excess of distance.

These facts, I say, are well known to almost everybody, yet, although I have repeated them thousands of times in books and articles and lectures, it required the unexpected sight of the sun behind a cloud, seen from the deck of a ship in mid-ocean, to suddenly illuminate my consciousness with a full appreciation of their meaning. The relative nearness—almost startling nearness—of our star seemed suddenly to have proclaimed itself through the effect produced upon the intervening cloud. Because of the cutting off of the direct sunlight by the cloud-screen the source of that light seemed to have suddenly been brought close up to the back of the cloud, and there it burned with ineffable splendor. Only a little thick vapor in the atmosphere appeared to separate it from the earth. Those dazzling rays shooting every way from behind the cloud were intimidating, almost terrifying, in the sense that they imposed of irresistible power, insufferable brightness and electrifying nearness.

When at length, and slowly, the disk of the sun emerged from behind the cloud it seemed to my blinded eyes to have expanded to an incredible size. The sense of nearness was still in possession of my mind, so that I saw the orb subjectively and "our star" had become, for the moment, a monstrous circle of white fire that the imagination pictured as rushing upon the earth to consume it, as a conflagration licks up a bit of paper.

A standing puzzle of optics is the exaggeration of the apparent size of the sun and the moon when seen poised on the horizon. The phenomenon is explained as a subjective impression, and my experience with the cloud-hidden sun was of a like nature. But the realism was, for the moment overwhelming.—Copyright 1928, International Feature Service, Inc.

Compulsory Insurance Discussion to Feature National Convention

Cincinnati, June 28 — Representatives of over 1,000 automobile clubs of the nation were gathered here today for the opening of the annual two-day convention of the American Automobile Association.

Compulsory automobile insurance will be one of the most important features to be discussed. A report is to be made by special committee appointed some time ago to study the question.

Continuation and extension of the program of national highways was expected to be stressed in the annual address of the president of the association, Thomas P. Henry, of Detroit, who has headed the organization for the last five years.

A motor tour of Kentucky is one of the features planned for the meeting. The trip will be made on a third day following the two-day business session.

BALLOTING AWAITED BY SMITH MANAGERS

Convinced That New York Governor Will Be Nominated With Ease

HERE IS ENGINEERING

that really means something to the Automobile Owner

THERE'S a deal of talk these days about the engineering back of this or that car. Most of it covers a multitude of sins or the lack of something definite to talk about in the cars themselves.

Even in the face of this situation, we want to tell you what Reo engineering means to the buyer of a Reo Flying Cloud. Because Reo engineering can be measured by Reo owners in terms of dollars and cents, of performance and comfort.

Here, precisely, are some of the facts about Reo engineering.

1. Reo engineers have the same experimental facilities that are available in any laboratory. This means that Reo engineers test carefully and select materials and parts that they know have the strength and the durability necessary to uphold the Reo reputation for long life.

2. Reo engineers will not content themselves with the road tests possible in a limited testing area. Before the first Flying Cloud ever started down the production lines, Flying Cloud engines, Flying Cloud brakes, Flying Cloud clutches, transmissions, steering gears, axles—every integral part—had been subjected to hundreds of thousands of miles of terrific punishment on the highways of the Middle West, through the sands of the deserts, over the rocky trails of the Sierras, through the muds of Louisiana bottom lands.

3. Reo engineers are admitted leaders in their field. There may be—probably are—others of equal skill and foresight. But Reo engineers are unique in their freedom to develop their ideas and put into effect their plans. For Reo engineers are unrestricted by a financial policy, built of necessity around a huge indebtedness; Reo engineers are unhampered by the production problems imposed inevitably by a large, immobile plant; and Reo engineers are supported by a capable production personnel whose loyalty to Reo is reflected by the lowest rate of labor turn-over in the industry.

4. Because of these conditions, Reo engineers are free to take advantage of new developments quickly, free to pass these along to Reo buyers more promptly, free to direct the production of automobiles which embody engineering ideals rather than production requirements.

These facts about Reo engineering will take on additional significance the moment you compare Reo Flying Cloud performance, comfort, ease and construction with any other car. There's one near you—try it for yourself.
